"A classroom should be an inclusive place; for academics, of course, but also for the formidable social and emotional concerns that confront all of us every day. Every school can and should provide a level playing field – implemented by the administration, staff and most specifically the teachers – from which no student is excluded."

Robert L. Kelly

"Inclusive education is about embracing all, making a commitment to do whatever it takes to provide each student in the community—and each citizen in a democracy—an inalienable right to belong, not to be excluded. Inclusion assumes that living and learning together is a better way that benefits everyone, not just children who are labeled as having a difference."Falvey, Givner & Kimm
